transpired out of grievances Weimer submitted against MASC staff. Weimer had to personally relay the complaints to the Human Resources Bureau because of MASC staff's refusal to do so.

Like unto Ingrid Gustafson, James Shea, Jim Rice, and Laurie McKinnon, justices disqualified pursuant to Montana Code of Judicial Conduct Rule 2.12 in Weimer's Notification of Disqualification of Justices and support for Stay of Judgment and Release filed in this Court on April 27, 2023, in this matter, so also the MASC staff devised my hurt, causing the following issues:

1. Unauthorized placement of my person in the Montana State Prison.
2. 22 hour lockdown every day for MDIU Classification, with an anticipated 120-140 day wait period according to staff.
3. I was denied a desk to draft work product in this matter; there are no tools except a law library on a tablet available for half a day once every four days, if the system is operational. This is a state wide issue in all facilities as they change providers.
4. Weimer is currently in DOC "care and custody"; mail should be forwarded from MASC to him, but if not received would burden to remedy. The 7x8' cell is shared and is not designed for appellate briefing, let alone any practice at law.

Weimer has the entire record on his laptop work station, and the court reporter stated an electronic copy of the transcripts were also emailed to him. The laptop work station has all the tools to effectively practice at law.

CONCLUSION

The remaining justices, Mike McGrath, Beth Baker, and Dirk Sandefur should consider these circumstances that have befallen upon Weimer when ruling on the Petition for Rehearing, on top of due process and delay violations. Dated this ^{7th}_{16th} day of May, 2023
